Transition

Yesterday the children spent time with their new teachers in their new classroom. There were lots of smiling faces in school and a buzz of excitement. The aim of this transition morning is to alleviate any worries children may have about their new class to avoid them becoming distressed over the summer holiday period. As we all know, change is stressful. We all feel the same pressures when we move house, change jobs, etc. and it is no different for children. School is built around routines so the idea of changing what is so familiar to them is daunting. Hopefully after the transition morning, children know the basics about how life will be in September. The key information is the adults they will be working with every day, where their classroom is, where their cloakroom is and which doors they will use.

For some children who find aspects of school more tricky, Miss Lewis (SEND/CO) has devised a transition booklet with pictures of the key information and key people. This goes home with the children and they can look at it over the summer holiday period so that doubts can be addressed as they arise.

The greatest transition taking place in school is for our Y6 pupils.

WOOD END - The children will be spending 2 days next week at Kingsbury learning where everything is and the expectations of the school. The children are also completing a transition unit of work in the books they will be using in Year 7. This gives us a chance to shine and show the staff at Kingsbury all that we are capable of.

We believe that transition is a crucial part of the work we do in school and it should put children at ease. However, as always, if you have any concerns about the transition or your child appears to have worries beyond the usual nervousness, please contact school and arrange to speak to someone. The last thing we want is for a summer holiday to be dampened by worry.

Transition to High School

At this time of year we know we are preparing our children for their next steps in learning. For year 6 children this means moving onto high school. We work closely with local high schools to ensure this transition is as smooth as possible. You may not know that transition work has already started with year 5. On Tuesday our year 5 children attended a music concert at Kingsbury High School. This was the culmination of a transition project working with the music department from the High School. Mrs Palmer has been working with our children throughout the year. The children represented our school fantastically and shone during the performance. Their behaviour was exemplary and their performance reflected all their hard work. Well done year 5. Their next transition adventure will be CSI day based at the High School.

Spotlight on Parent Workshops

At Wood End Primary School we are always looking for ways to engage parents in their child's learning. Over the past four weeks a group of Reception and Year 1 parents have joined us for a story sack project. This was led by Cheryl Neil, a family learning tutor from Warwickshire County Council. The sessions were well attended and everyone involved enjoyed and learned something from the workshops. The children worked with their parents to create story sacks thinking about the language and reading skills linked to their favourite books. Some wonderful sacks were produced which children were able to take home to enjoy with their whole family. We have already organised for Cheryl to join us next year and look forward to inviting more parents into school.
